Important Information About the CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER® (CFP®) Designation: Those with the CFP® certification have demonstrated competency in all areas of finance related to financial planning. Candidates for the CFP® mark must pass a certification exam administered by the Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards, Inc. that focuses on more than 100 topics of concern to the financial planning field. In addition to passing the CFP® exam, candidates must also complete qualifying work experience and agree to the CFP Board's Standards and Policies, which include CFP® Certification Requirements, Code of Ethics and Standards of Conduct, Fitness Standards for Candidates and Professionals Eligible for Reinstatement, Procedural Rules, Guide to Use of the CFP® Certification Marks, and Privacy Policy. Finally, certified CFP® professionals must complete 30 hours of continuing education every two years. Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards Inc. owns the marks CFP® certification and CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER® certification in the U.S., which it awards to individuals who successfully complete CFP Board's initial and ongoing certification requirements.

Important Information About the Certified in Blockchain and Digital Assets℠ (CBDA℠) Designation: The Certified in Blockchain and Digital Assets℠ (CBDA℠) designation is an online self-study program that provides financial professionals with essential knowledge and understanding of blockchain and digital assets, enabling them to advise clients on this asset class. The CBDA℠ designation is offered through the Digital Assets Council of Financial Professionals and candidates must achieve a score of 70% or higher on all modules to pass the designation program. After one year, designation holders are required to take an Update Course and pay a renewal fee to be able to continue using the CBDA℠ Designation.
